ABOUT NBASLH

The National Black Association for Speech-Language and Hearing (NBASLH) - established in 1978 - is the premier professional and scientific association addressing the communication interests and concerns of black communication science and disorders professionals, students, and consumers. The association is the model for other organizations addressing the concerns of diverse populations. The mission of NBASLH is to maintain a viable mechanism through which the needs of black professionals, students, and individuals with communication disorders can be met. NBASLH's Annual Convention gathers over 400 researchers, academicians, clinicians, educators, administrators, and students from across the country and the Caribbean. Each year, convention attendees look forward to the NBASLH Convention, which serves as an exchange of research and clinical developments related to the speech-language pathology, audiology, and related disciplines. Attendees also look forward to connecting with exhibitors to gather information about services or even purchase products.
